Ted Wiga Nurtures Life

Born and raised in Pennsylvania, Ted Wiga moved to the Bay Area 11 years ago. "I'm really disappointed with the whole Governor thing," Ted begins. "I mean it's not like Davis was doing a great job, but (the recall) sets a bad precedent."

Living in Hayward with his partner of six years and with his four dogs, which "makes for quite the household," Ted spends his days working on his business ventures with his partner.

"I opened WY Enterprises earlier this year in February. Basically, we do corporate and residential organizing. We can reorganize the infrastructure of corporations, or the infrastructure of your kitchen cupboards." Ted and his partner are instigating a second business, which supplies all-natural gourmet treats for dogs.

"For the past 18 years, I've been doing computer consulting and people management," Ted says. "And a central theme of my work history has been organizing, or getting people on track and figuring out how they got off track. I believe organization is the key to everything in life. Even in disorganization, the state of being disorganized is a form of organization, but it's not the healthiest state."

"It's really about fulfillment," Ted continues. "To have a client achieve something that they've struggled with for so long is so fulfilling for me. It's like being a teacher. When one the clients make progress, it's an amazing feeling."

A nurturing man, Ted cares for his dogs, his partner, his clients, and his garden. "We have this huge vegetable garden this year which has been exciting. And having four dogs with four different personalities is challenging, but it's also very rewarding."

"My relationship is the biggest chunk of my life now, and I want to say that I am very proud of my partner. I'm just so lucky to have the relationship I have, and I want everyone to know that the best relationship for them is out there. I really do believe that. I think the key to getting through it all is communication and trust."

"It's important for the community to continue to be proud and fight for what we want, like rights that thöe straight community has. Integrity, love, and honesty; that is how to get through this life." You can reach Ted at wyenterprises.com.
